

Burndown

Explanation:

From past experiences, we find that having around 60 +/- 5 points is the ideal velocity for our team this semester. As usual, due to school work, the sprint starts slow in the first half but catches up when everyone has more free time from bi-weekly work.

We are able to finish one day early which is the first time this ever happened. We have one day to look at and analyze our sprint care free of unfinished tasks. As the team agreed, this is the velocity at that everyone is comfortable with the current point system.
